The Archipelago became a.her eyes only. She spat into the fire, wiped her sore mouth with her hand, and stood motionless.shrugged arthritically into his heavy cloak, took up his staff, told the fire to go out, and left..up from Gont Port, last spring, to lay a floor in the old house. They had had one of their.Where his boat is rowing.He woke, as he always did, in his room in the Great House. He did not understand why the ceiling was low and the air smelt fresh but sour and cattle were bawling outside. He had to lie still and come back to this other place and this other man, whose use-name he couldn't remember, though he had said it last night to a heifer or a woman. He knew his true name but it was no good here, wherever here was, or anywhere. There had been black roads and dropping slopes and a vast green land lying down before him cut with rivers, shining with waters. A cold wind blowing. The reeds had whistled, and the young cow had led him through the stream, and Emer had opened the door. He had known her name as soon as he saw her. But he must use some other name. He must not call her by her name. He must remember what name he had told her to call him. He must not be Irioth, though he was Irioth. Maybe in time he would be another man. No; that was wrong; he must be this man. This man's legs ached and his feet hurt. But it was a good bed, a feather bed, warm, and he need not get out of it yet. He drowsed a while, drifting away from Irioth..or through him. He didn't know what he was doing, or what she was doing, and he was almost certain."He's ten times the use and company to me my brother is," she said. "And a kind true man, as I told you. Sir.".The idea of doing harm troubled her, but the idea of danger had not entered her mind. She found it inconceivable. "I'll be all right," she said.
